Covington, Va., March 17 .- A five-ear-old colored child was struck and killed at Lowmoor last evening by an automobile owned and driven by Frank Null, of this place. Mr. Null and a party of friends were returning from Clifton Forge, and while passing through Lowmoor they overtook three colored children. Two of them got out of the way on one side of the road and one got out of the way on the other side, and without any warning, just as the car was about to pass, undertook to join her companions. She was unable to do so before she was struck on the head by one of the imps of the ear and instantly killed. after a thorough examination by the authorities, Mr. Null was exonerated from all blame, as it was unavoidable on his part. earnest hearts and hands. It has ever been an industry of evolution and change. In the olden times it changed in many countries with the changes of rulers. Each succeeding monarch, desiring to outrival his or her predecessor in the construction of artistic furniture, called to his service men of genius and gave them carte blanc authority, irrespective of cost or time, to produce a style distinctictly individual and pleasing to his taste. As these monarchs and artisans lived at different periods of time in the life of their countries, the furniture produced in those times is designated as Period Furniture, and bears the name of the ruling monarch, the artisan or the transition period of change in the affairs of government. Hence we have the Gothic, Italian Refaissance, Flemish Renaissance, Early English, Empire and Colonial, The Elizabethan, Stuart, Jacobean, Comwellian, William and Mary, Queen Anne, Louis XV., Louis XVI., Georgian, Artisans, Boule, Chippendale, Adam Bros., Hepplewhite, Sheraton, and others.
